Born Newcastle Upon Tyne England 1949
St Martins School Of Art London 1967 – 1971

Following graduation from St Martins I illustrated children's educational books for a short period for Oxford University Press and worked as a freelance fabric print designer. By 1973 due to financial pressure I was employed full time in the world of commerce travelling widely however painting and drawing remained part of my life where ever my job took me.

I moved to Australia in 1986 to change my lifestyle completely and I am now fully involved in art again.

I still travel extensively and in 2005 I was privileged to see the Shirley Sherwood exhibition in Oxford, which inspired me to try my hand at botanical painting.

My preferred materials are watercolour or pencil on paper or vellum.
